FRANK M'COLLOUGH DIES AT HOME LAST NIGHT

Carson City Daily, June 15, 1912 and Reno Evening Gazette – 6/17/1912

Pioneer Carsonite Who Held Many Important Positions Answers Final Call

Frank McCullough, one of the best known pioneer citizens of this city passed away at his home about midnight. His death was entirely unexpected and is a shock and regret to this community, where he spent the best days of his life.

Last evening while at home he complained of a severe pain in his chest. Mrs. Cobb, who makes her home at the house, suggested that a physician be summoned. This was declined. She administered some medicine that had been used and also applied a plaster. Mr. McCullough insisted that she go to bed. She did go to her room and returned about an hour later. Upon entering the room she discovered that Frank McCullough had passed away. Death was due to neuralgia of the heart. Neighbors were summoned and all possible was rendered. Mrs. Cobb, who is 88 years of age is practically prostrated with grief and the shock.

Frank McCullough had many good qualities. His generosity wrecked him financially. He would give even when it took away from his own comforts. This was the way throughout his entire life. No one in need applied and was turned away and he often went out of his path to give to others. It was a great virtue.

He was a veteran of the Civil War. He enlisted in the 40th Ohio, Company H, and served two year and ten months, and was honorably discharged. In his effects is a paper from his general complimenting him for bravery. He was a member of the local order of G.A.R. and the funeral will probably be held under the directions of the order.

Deceased was a native of Springfield, Ohio. After the war he moved to California in the rush to the West. In 1868 he came to Nevada, locating in Dayton, where he had charge of a mill. He later took charge of the Merrimac mill and remained in the employ of the reduction company for many years. From that position he was appointed Warden of the Penitentiary where he served two terms, and was considered one of the most capable men who ever had charge of the institution.

He was a Mason in high standing for many years and during his times of troubles the past few years failed to take an active part in the organization.

He leaves one son, Frank Jr., who has been telegraphed of the death. Arrangements for the funeral will be made as soon as word comes from the young man.

Frank McCullough will be missed by many in many ways.
